

MEDIA RELEASE

17 June 2011

SUPPORTING CATHOLIC TEACHERS AND STAFF THROUGH PRIVATE CLOUD TECHNOLOGY

The Catholic Education Office Sydney and its partner dioceses have invested $10 million over the next four years to deliver an innovative payroll and HR management system based on new private cloud technology, created by ICT company, CSG.

The new online system will replace multiple HR and payroll applications, many paper-based, for five Catholic education and schools offices across NSW, providing support for 16,000 staff in 276 schools.

“Having a secure, fully integrated system that uses contemporary cloud technology, will deliver significant benefits to staff, and provide them anywhere/anytime access to important payroll and HR information,” said Dr Dan White, Executive Director of Catholic Schools for the Archdiocese of Sydney. “We were impressed by CSG’s capacity to listen carefully to our particular needs, and tailor a solution that is innovative and efficient.”

Based on the Oracle People Soft product, CSG will deliver a new system that will provide teachers and support staff with a self-service kiosk so that leave-requests, information about their personal records, pay-slips and other information can be accessed securely and instantly online.

“This new system tailors an existing product and provides data through Australian-hosted, private cloud technology to improve teacher and staff access to critical personal information in a secure and efficient way,” said Julie-Ann Kerin, Group General Manager CSG Technology Solutions.

“Cloud technology has the ability to provide organisations, such as the Catholic Education Office with adaptable, cost-effective solutions to improving services for their staff. However, CSG recognises that the data needs to be held in Australia, and its security is paramount.

“The new HR and payroll system incorporates the best of both worlds by providing the security required and the flexibility the organisation needs.”

CSG will implement the system over the next 12 months and provide support and fully-hosted managed services for the remaining three years, with an option to extend at the conclusion of the contract.

Further information

Melissa Horne CSG – 0412 130 823

Mark Rix Catholic Education Office – 02 9568 8224